

WELCOME TO JVL JEWELLERY VALUATION LABORATORY

We provide professional and independent jewellery valuation certificates and reports, done according to National Council of Jewellery Valuers guidelines in our secure office and laboratory, by registered valuers.

We understand that jewellery and other valuables can be of great sentimental value and may even have been passed down through many generations. We offer a range of services to cater for your individual needs, including an accurate and secure valuation service.

We believe that when it comes to valuing your jewellery, there should be no compromise. Our comprehensive jewellery, coloured stone, diamond, and metals knowledge enables us to provide unbiased and professional jewellery valuations.

We truly are independent and have no ties or affiliations with any retail stores, insurance companies, or other commercial organisations.

Our commitment is to customer service and high ethical standards. JVL state of art Gemmological Laboratory equipment ensures the client receives an accurate appraisal supported by scientific methods.

Appraisal & Valuation

TRADE SERVICES

A professional appraisal is an essential aid to decision-making and understanding the value of your precious jewellery.

A validated description and evaluation of jewellery, watches and fine valuables.

People get their jewellery and gemstones valued for a number of purposes – primarily to provide evidence of ownership in the event of loss, theft or accident. Without a jewellery valuation certificate and photograph, most insurance companies will only compensate a small percentage of the item.

Documentation provided by a jewellery valuation service is used as evidence to ensure that the accurate financial value of the item is protected.

Other reasons why people choose to get their precious items valued include:

- To validate the authenticity of an item, through identification of stones and metals.
- To determine the market value of an item. If you are considering buying or selling, and want a fair market price for your items, JVL can assist you with their expert market knowledge.
- To obtain an unbiased valuation not influenced by buyers, sellers, insurance agents.
- To protect and find out the value of family heirlooms, which may hold both sentimental and financial value.
